Hitler Leaves Battleship And Makes Auto Tour Of City For Acclaim

MEMEL, Germany, March 23.—Laying symbol of Nazi Germany's determination to dominate central Europe regardless of objections from abroad, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler took personal possession of Memel today.

At the head of an imposing naval fleet, the Fuehrer entered the city at 2:04 p. m. (8:04 a. m. E. S. T.) to receive the acclaim of his subjects in the newest territorial acquisition of the Nazi Reich.

There was a four-hour delay from the time Hitler arrived aboard the battleship Deutschland in the Memel roadstead until he set foot on the soil of this ancient city, founded by German pioneers in 1252 and handed to Lithuania after the World War.

In the meantime, huge crowds had gathered in the theatre square to witness formal military occupation of the city by Prussian troops from Tilsit. To the huge assemblage, excited Memel officials made a premature announcement that Hitler had landed, but four hours passed before the citizens had a chance to glimpse and applaud the man who took them back into the German fold in another of his bloodless conquests.

Fleet Arrives
Preceded by a detachment of cruisers, destroyers, minesweepers and submarines, the Deutschland arrived in the roadstead at 9 a. m. from Swinemunde on the western end of the Baltic Sea. For the first time in his career as dictator and "aggrandizer" of the third Reich, Hitler carried out this particular triumph as commander-in-chief of the German Navy. It was the first time he had entered a newly-acquired territory by the sea.

Squadrons of seaplanes roared over the busy harbor as the sleek gray battleship dropped anchor. A number of the Fuehrer's aides, including Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Gestapo or secret police, went ashore immediately to make sure that everything was in readiness for Hitler's entry.

Shortly before 8 o'clock, a torpedo-boat launch drew up alongside the Deutschland. It was boarded by Admiral-General Eric Raeder, naval commander of the Baltic.

Wyoming "Tarzan" May Have Escaped

(International News Service)

POWELL, Wyo., March 23.—Earl Durand, 26-year-old "Tarzan" who last night shot and probably killed two persons who sought to storm a mountain hideout to capture him, may have evaded the cordon of more than 100 guards and fled during the night, it was indicated early today.

Sheriff Frank Blackburn of Cody, in charge of the large posse, messaged Powell via shortwave radio from his position below the mountain Durand had made his stronghold that it was possible the shaggy-haired fugitive had slipped through the posse during the night and made for another hideout.

Blackburn added it was not probable Durand had escaped, but it was pointed out he was more familiar with the mountainous country than any of his pursuers, and might have

NEW YORK, March 23.—Disagreement over a new wage scale for the 350,000 miners in the vast Appalachian soft coal fields today deadlocked the current conferences between the operators and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers of America.

To grant the 50 cents a day increase demanded by the miners would be "suicidal" for the industry, according to Charles O'Neill, spokesman for the operators. Instead, the operators have proposed a 50 cents a day reduction in wages.

New Diplomatic Battle Of Words On Memel Opens

Nazi Press Releases New Blast Against British Home Secretary

COUNTER-MEASURES ARE NOW THREATENED

Details Of Agreement For Taking Over Memel Are Announced

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, March 23.—A new diplomatic battle of words between Great Britain and Germany over the method of the Reich's annexation of Memel appeared in the making today as the Nazi press released a new blast against British Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare.

The attack upon Sir Samuel was occasioned by his statement in the House of Commons that German demands upon Lithuania for surrender of Memel to the Reich "amounted to an ultimatum."

In an officially inspired article, the newspaper Deutscher Dienst rejected Sir Samuel's statement and called the British home secretary a "liar."

The paper also threatened German counter-measures against England in retaliation for the British cabinet minister's assertion.

Details Of Agreement

Meanwhile, details of the non-aggression agreement between Germany and Lithuania, in return for Lithuania's surrender of Memel, showed that the Reich had granted Lithuania a 99-year lease for use of Memel harbor.

The agreement, concluded in negotiations at the Berlin foreign office, also provides for increased volume of trade between the two countries.

Under the agreement, reunion of Memel with Germany is regulated in a manner designed to launch "friendly formation of relations between the two countries."

It called for evacuation of all Lithuanian troops and police from the Memel territory, establishment of a free port zone in Memel for Lithuania, and included a clause stipulating that neither Germany nor Lithuania would attack each other or support an attack upon each other by any third nation.

The treaty was arranged during a conference between German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany and Lithuanian Foreign Minister Juozas Urbysas and his aides. Shortly after midnight Chancellor Hitler was informed by radio that the agreement had been signed and sealed and that the return of Memel to Germany had thus been given legal status.

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, March 23.—Adolf Hitler was warned bluntly by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today that he faces the same fate as Napoleon if he seeks to dominate Europe by force of arms.

Addressing the house of commons, the prime minister expressed regret that he could not make a full statement, but added:

"Were it proved correct that Germany is attempting to dominate Europe, his majesty's government would feel bound to say that, as similar attempts have done in the past, this would rouse successful resistance by this and other countries who prize freedom."

New Proposal On Neutrality

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 23.—A mandatory neutrality act empowering only congress to call its drastic provisions into effect, was injected into congressional debate over foreign policy today by a bi-partisan majority of the special senate committee that investigated the munitions industry.

Backed by Republican Senators Vandenberg of Michigan and Nye of North Dakota, and Senators Clark of Missouri and Bone of Washington, Democrats, the measure was drafted by a rallying point for opposition to the pending administration-favored strict cash-and-carry neutrality proposal.

As basically agreed upon by its sponsors, the bill would provide:

1.—That the law shall go into effect upon a declaration by joint resolution of congress that armed conflict exists between two foreign nations.

2.—That thereafter no munitions or materials of war may be exported to the belligerents; that food and strictly non-military commodities may be sold to the belligerents only upon conditions that permit change of title on American soil and transportation from American shores on foreign boats.

Poland Balks At Agreement To 'Stop Hitler'

Wants Iron-Clad Military Guarantee Of Aid From Britain-France

RUSSIA WILLING TO JOIN AGREEMENT

Multi-Nation Declaration Against German Expansion May Not Develop

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 23.—British and French authorities seeking to draw up a multi-nation declaration against German expansion grew despondent today over the possibility that their efforts may prove fruitless.

It was stated that Poland is unwilling to cooperate with the French and British in lining up a virtual "stop Hitler" bloc unless Warsaw receives iron-clad, specific military guarantees of aid in the event of a German attack.

Unless Polish reluctance to join in can be overcome, British and French circles admitted, the entire project for a common declaration as well as an idea for a conference among nations opposed to German expansion may come to nothing.

To Consider Developments
French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet and British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax will meet tonight for a discussion of latest developments.

Soviet Russia has advised Great Britain that Moscow is willing to sign the declaration against German "aggression," but the cooperation of Poland, in view of her strategic geographical situation, is regarded as more important than that of any other nation, even Russia, especially by the French.

(Background Note: Poland's geographical situation is one of the chief reasons for Warsaw's caution regarding the proposed anti-Hitler declaration. Poland is already bordered on three sides by the expanding Reich and hence is unwilling to offend Berlin without absolute guarantees of aid should her participation in the declaration bring a German attack.)

Despite the Polish attitude, an influential section of the British cabinet is still firmly opposed to giving military guarantees to Poland on

A. F. Of L. Officials Draft "Last Word"

Final Offer To C.I.O. Is Planned

Comment Withheld On New York Attack On Federation By Lewis

LABOR PARLEY TO BE RESUMED FRIDAY

By JACK VINCENT

(Copyright 1939)

WASHINGTON, March 23.—A. F. of L. officials today drafted a "This is our last word" offer to present to the C. I. O. in the presidentially-mandated labor peace conference.

Withholding public comment on the New York attack on the Federation by John L. Lewis, head of the C. I. O., the members of the executive council of the A. F. of L. met in special session to draft the offer.

In effect, it will tell the C. I. O. just how far the Federation can go in settling jurisdictional disputes with the large industrial unions which originally bolted the A. F. of L. to form the C. I. O.

To Be Presented Tomorrow

It will be given to the C. I. O. peace negotiating committee when the peace parleys are resumed tomorrow. The Federation felt, it was learned, that the C. I. O. must accept, at least partially, terms of the draft or there will be no use of continuing the peace talks. Barring direct intervention by President Roosevelt or his administration, a C. I. O. refusal would mean collapse of the negotiations which were started by the president less than a month ago, observers said.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., who is presiding over the executive council meeting, which started yesterday, also declined to comment on Lewis' statements in New York.

LEVYING OF ANY NEW TAXES OPPOSED BY GOVERNOR

There will be no new taxes during this legislature, said the governor. "To that end I will bend every effort."

This was a reversal of the governor's position expressed 10 days ago when he said: "If the relief situation continues serious and if there is no upward trend in business, it may be necessary later to pass new tax bills."

Declares Opposition
Governor James declared opposition to the tax bills introduced by Reps. Edwin Winner, R., Montgomery and Herbert G. Gates, R., Armstrong, and his expressed hopes for business recovery were expected to still some of the clamor in the house for tax revision.

The governor said he was hopeful that the reports of business improvement, which covered February, would continue, permit a reduction in the relief load, and thus perhaps permit the state to aid financially-distressed school districts to a greater extent than at present.

Governor James' opposition to a flat income tax proposed by representative Gates was explicit.

"In the course of the campaign I said I was against any new taxes and that goes for the income tax too," he said.

The chief executive said he was "sympathetic" to the requests of distressed school districts for aid.

"When we come to the general appropriation we'll see if we can't be of some help to them," he said. Asked whether he favored enactment of the winner amusement tax bill to provide revenue for state aid to school districts, Governor James replied: "Not at the present time."

He added that that applied to enactment of the winner bill for any other purpose.

Hungary Denies Border Crossed
Berlin, March 23.—A new situation arose in troubled central Europe today when Hungarian troops occupied several towns in eastern Slovakia, according to word received in Berlin from Pressburg (Bratislava), Slovakian capital.

The official German news agency DNB circulated an official announcement from Pressburg to the effect that Hungarian troops had occupied the towns of Ulic, Kalna, Kozkova and Pekisove.

Editor's Note: Previously, exchange telegraph, in dispatches to London from Prague and the Copenhagen, stated that "considerable Hungarian forces" had crossed the border and "invaded" Slovakia.)

In Budapest, the Hungarian government ridiculed the reports, stating that Hungarian troops had merely occupied a small strip of territory along the Ruthenian-Slovakian border. Reports that the frontier had actually been crossed were denied.

grounds that this would still further entangle Great Britain in the uncertain, dangerous affairs of central Europe.

London, March 23.—An agreement between Great Britain and France for mutual military support should the tangled European situation hurl either nation into war was revealed today.

British and French authorities agreed upon mutual military, naval and aerial support in the event either nation becomes involved in war in the event of possible German aggression against Holland, Belgium or Switzerland.

At the same time, diplomats in London and elsewhere sought to work out some means of drawing up a similar defensive system for eastern Europe.

Fear Westward Move

(Background Note: Fears that Germany's expansion program might turn westward against Holland and Belgium have long been one of the chief nightmares suffered by the British government. Maintenance of the integrity of Holland and Belgium has long been a primary principle of British foreign policy, since these nations serve as "buffer states" between England and the Reich.)

Along with the concrete agreement of implementing British and French military collaboration, the idea of a conference of the powers opposed to German expansion again received serious consideration.

The latest proposal was to hold a meeting of representatives of these powers in London for the purpose of framing a declaration against further German expansion.

Propose London Gathering
In addition, it was proposed that the nations would engage in staff talks aimed at blocking Chancellor Hitler's ambitions.

A gathering in London, it was felt, would prove a quicker method than seeking to obtain an agreement on a declaration and course of action through lengthy diplomatic negotiations.

Arthur Argote and Orville Linaberry were shot down last night when they braved Durand's fire in an attempt to rush his mountain stronghold, about 400 feet up the side of a boulder-guarded slope 40 miles northwest of Powell. They were left where they fell as in the darkness it was considered suicidal to try to reach them.

Last Thursday night, Durand, powerful backwoodsmen who often in the past had lived for weeks in the wilds of this country with nothing but raw meat for food, shot and killed two officers who tried to capture him following his escape from jail at Cody, Wyo. This attack occurred at the ranch of Durand's parents, two miles from Powell. The men killed when Durand opened fire on them with a high-powered rifle were Under-Sheriff D. W. Baker of Powell and Charles Lewis, town marshal.

Consideration of the mandatory proposal, which will be introduced within a few days, along with the cash-and-carry plan, two resolutions to repeal all neutrality law, and one to increase the president's discretion on embargoing materials, will begin next Wednesday in a closed session of the foreign relations committee.

Bridge was in play at two tables at the Allegre club meeting held Wednesday evening in the home of Mrs. Ralph Snyder, Sheridan avenue. Prizes for this pastime were won by Mrs. George Reid and Mrs. Percy Lutton. At the close of play, a tasty repast was served by the hostess, aided by her daughter, Shirley.

In three weeks, Mrs. Marshall Curran, Walmo, will entertain the group at a dinner in a local tea room.

Paisley-Walsy Change

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

EXCEPTIONS MENACE FORMING OF HABITS

I am convinced that most of the exceptions made by mothers, once they have a habit fairly well going, are made because they think they are being kind to the baby. They are sure "the little fellow must have colic, else he wouldn't cry," or that "he is getting a new tooth," "I'll rock him just this time" or, "I'll lie down beside him only once," they may say. The trouble is that as the days go by and there is no colic and no teething, the habit of crying for attention keeps on growing. Exceptions always play havoc with good habit building.

In your attempt to avoid exceptions you will meet with difficulties. You have decided, for example, that the afternoon nap shall come at two o'clock. Since the baby's birth you have been away from home but little. You are invited to spend the afternoon at the home of a friend. You feel that you need the companionship which this contact will afford. There is always the weighing of values. Which is the more important? Perhaps you can take baby in a carriage, and he can sleep out-of-doors.

One Choice

If your going means that baby will be handed from one person to another, and that he will come home with nerves unstrung, there would seem to be but one choice. Such choices in the baby's favor usually mean personal sacrifice to you; nevertheless, good returns come from your sacrifices during the early stages of habit forming. The mother who takes her baby away from home must spend several days, perhaps, in added effort to restore the old routine.

If you are able to provide someone who is competent to care for your baby, then you may go and still keep his habits as you want them. If to have someone keep the baby is a matter of financial sacrifice, even then it may be worth going without some things you need in order to get away, and to get the baby used to some other personality than your own.

Being Kind

Both in young babies and in older children mothers seem to make exceptions because they feel sorry for the child. They think they are being kind. They really are being unkind. To vary a program means later suffering by the child. That mother is most kind to her child who has a definite schedule and who sticks by it.

If you are an expectant mother, your best opportunity is to resolve now that when you return from the hospital with your baby, you are going to continue to cultivate the good habits which have been trained in him there. You will go home at the end of two weeks, perhaps, with his habits fairly well begun. One day's exception from this program will undo much that the doctor and nurse did for you and your baby while you were away.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A FEW GOLFERS

The winter golf tournaments arranged for professionals, where considerable sums of money are distributed among the winners and near winners, have been in full swing now for a couple of months and, of course, records are being broken continuously. It seems that a golf player now to win anything must be a sub-par player and must be able to negotiate eighteen holes in less than seventy strokes. Sometimes it is one player and sometimes it is another who wins and it is impossible to determine now whether "Slamming" Sammie Sneed, long-driving Jimmie Thompson or careful playing Ralph Guildhall is the best player.

Anyhow, the public is spending its money watching these tournaments and contributing to the purses, just as they have contributed to football games and prize fights, more cheerfully than they contribute to Income Tax.

In the past there have been some remarkable golfers. The following might be named:
WALTER RALEIGH, who was always in the ruff,
SAMSON, who couldn't break away from the links,
SAM ADAMS, who staged the Boston Tea Party,
MAGELLAN, who went around in 1591,
DAN BOONE, who shot birdies in the American,
SIR GALAHAD, who won the Grail Cup.

It has been my observation that the lower the social order and intelligence quotient the more highly appreciated and more loudly proclaimed is this threadbare attempt at witlessness. The more highly bred people are the less the mother-in-law problem disturbs them and the more they suppress their resentment if such a problem confronts them.

The root of the mother-in-law problem, like that of most problems, is poverty. Fortunately, the old-age pension system, when perfected, will eliminate it from that stratum of society that is most vociferous in discussing it and in applauding it when it is cracked from the stages of low burlesque theaters, night clubs and such places of entertainment.

What's What At A Glance

Ambassadors Become Orphans
European Strife Hurts Diplomats
Case Of Russian Embassy Recalled

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 23—About as forlorn an individual as one can think of is a diplomat far, far from his native land, whose home government has just blown up, leaving him a foreign representative with nothing to represent. Minister Vladimir Hruban, of what was Czechoslovakia, is in this fix in Washington now. Uncle Sam has had a number of such derelicts on his hands in recent years. A diplomat whose government falls out with ours, even to the extent of going to war with us, isn't in such bad shape. In a situation of that sort it's a point of honor for any government to see that the opposition government's emissary in its midst is sent home in style. Back in World War days, although we deported German Ambassador Count Von Bernstorff, we did it with every formal mark of respect; we treated him as a sure-enough mogul so long as he was on the job.

But a diplomat whose domestic rulership pops overnight is left in the position of a man who has had the ground suddenly jerked from under him, with no place to land as he falls. He isn't recalled. He simply is terminated. He goes to bed an ambassador or a minister (extremely prominent in official Washington) and he wakes up—nothing; countryless where he came from, an alien here, and alone. He may be flat broke, too.

Russia's Queer Case
When czarism in Russia was overthrown, it was replaced by the comparatively moderate Kerensky regime, which we recognized. It sent to us Boris Bakmeteff, as ambassador. He set up housekeeping in a very noisy embassy, inherited from the czar, originally bought and paid for there wasn't any dispute about that.

But presently Kerenskyism exploded. We didn't recognize the Soviets. It no longer was Bakmeteff's property. He had to move out. The last I knew about it he was practicing law in New York.

But the embassy real estate? For years it did nothing but stand there, on Sixteenth street, with nobody but a caretaker in charge. Of the ambassadorial staff nobody was left but Serge Ughet, who had been financial attaché. Yet he no longer spoke with any authority. He lived in Manhattan. The embassy was an orphan. The caretaker himself wouldn't come to the commercial office in Washington under Boris Skvirsky, but it was independent of the former embassy; the quarters weren't his.

I tried again and again to discover to whom that embassy belonged; it's worth about $1,000,000. All I could learn from the State Department was that it was like an estate, left by a dead government, with no heir.

Finally, however, we recognized the Soviets, and Ambassador Alexander A. Troyanovsky came into possession. So that's settled. Troyanovsky is in Russia on extended leave, but Charge d'Affaires Constantine A. Oumansky occupies the premises. The place seems to belong to Russia all right.

Austria, Spain, China?
Not long ago as we're aware Herr Hitler gobbled Austria, which put Austrian Minister Edgar L. G. Prochnik on the end of a limb. Dr. Prochnik found a position as a lecturer in a big American educational institution taking care of him. But who inherits the Austrian legation building on Massachusetts avenue?

Republican Spain also has gone floozy. Ambassador Fernando de los Rios likewise has gone in for American education. But we haven't a successor to him yet—or recognized new Spain. Who acquires that embassy?

Chinese Ambassador Hu Shih, is hanging on only by his eye teeth. He's likely to have an embassy to put on the market shortly.

Now, Minister Hruban of Czechoslovakia has an offer fish than I. Suffered more but didn't die. But to me I'll bet they'll bew When I say: "I'm grandpa now!"

Well, thought I, the other day Now I've got 'em, come what may. Now beyond the slightest doubt I've a joy to boast about. Maybe now they will admit I've a right to strut a bit. They've caught larger fish than I. Suffered more but didn't die. But to me I'll bet they'll bew When I say: "I'm grandpa now!"

I'm so mad I'm cussing yet! Stopped the first old fool I met. Just to have a little boast Of the joy that's uppermost In my heart and mind, and so. Shouted at him: "Did you know, I've a grandson? born today! Perfect, too, the doctors say." "Just one grandchild," answered he. "Shucks! that's nothing, I've got three."

YEAR AFTER OIL LAND SEIZURES

IT IS about a year since Mexico expropriated the property of 17 American and British oil companies (March 18, 1938).

Both Americans and Mexicans have learned something during the year that has passed. Donald Richberg has held several conversations with President Cardenas in an attempt to settle the affair. How far they got no one knows. But it seems likely, that as in any controversy, well-disposed discussion has brought the parties closer to each other. Perhaps settlement is on the way.

The United States has learned that Mexico is dead in earnest about the expropriation, and that the only ready means of fighting it drives Mexico into the trade hands of Germany, Italy and Japan.

Mexico has learned that running the big oil properties is a tough job, that the wages paid by the American companies are hard to maintain, let alone improve, and that the unsettled seizure is furnishing fine political capital for the political opposition.

Nobody is happy about it. Only settlement will enable both parties to get back to normal and mutually-profitable relations.

BUT CAN THE WEATHER BE TRUSTED?

Scientific progress being what it is, the Weather Bureau at Washington has been expected all along to become so accurate in forecasts that the word "probably" would be exiled from its word list. This has now been done. New balloon-and-radio combinations have, concedes the bureau, ended most of the guesswork.

But as the Weather Bureau gets rid of an old verbal friend, citizens lose it also. We're not sure we like this prospective precision unmodified and unmitigated. There was always minute comfort in being told of probable showers, or probable frost—always the hope that the weather man was just guessing and was guessing wrong. The weather is uncertain; why must we be certain about it? Life's pleasant speculations are being ruthlessly snatched from us.

NEARLY A BILLION SPENT FOR BEAUTY

Men may not be interested, but the National association of hair-dressers, in convention this week, decrees with triumphant voice that the top-of-crown hair-do which a few months ago came to a head, so to speak, is here to stay—but more so. The coiffure artists (mostly men) declare that women this year will wear their hair shorter and fluffier, revealing ears completely, reports the Philadelphia Inquirer.

They call the new hair-do a "swirl," and assure that fixing the hair this way will require only half the time needed for recent tight curls. This is intended to be good news for waiting husbands and beaux, and optimistically suggests that the lady will meet her engagements on time henceforth. Uh-huh!

Somebody should remind fun-pokers that beauty parlors have increased from 2000 in 1930 to 75,000 now, and that during 1938 American women spent $900,000,000 in them.

In the long run most of these dollars came out of men's pockets. However, the presumption is that women have made themselves $900,000,000 worth better looking, and even though an occasional one obviously hasn't got her money's worth, it is noted that the men, for all their near-humorous comments, aren't seriously protesting the cost. They have the strange idea that it is chiefly for them that women beautify themselves—and compared to such colossal masculine vanity what's such an insignificant sum spent for feminine fol-de-rols?

KEEP FIRE A SERVANT—NOT MASTER

Here's a little question and answer game that is of direct personal interest to you:

What agency has killed more Americans during the past 25 years than fell in the World War and the Civil War? What surpasses in its constant toll of life and property any devastation of nature? What has destroyed dollar values in the last ten years alone sufficient to build our navy, army and air forces to the greatest in the world?

All three of those questions can be answered in one word—and that word is fire! The comparisons given above were made in a recent article on fire in the magazine Fortune, which observed: "Since 1900 fire has consumed 400,000 U. S. lives, $13,000,000,000 of U. S. wealth, and it still goes strong. You don't have to have it unless you want to."

That last statement may sound like an exaggeration—but the facts bear it out to the letter. Ninety per cent of fires are man-made—the result of man's carelessness, man's ignorance, man's conscious and unconscious criminality. The good citizen who lets hazards accumulate unchecked on his property, and the arsonist who starts fires in the dead of night are viewed differently by law and public opinion—but both must bear the responsibility for the thousands of fires, great and small, that occur each year in this nation. The honest citizen's excuse is that he doesn't know about the hazards, or has been too busy to eliminate them—but that doesn't replace destroyed lives or property.

"The co-operation of everyone in the fight is urged to keep fire the servant, not the master."

Among those lately on the sick list has been Gandhi, the Mahatma. They think it was something he didn't eat.

A speaker says the Nazis have forgotten how to play. According to some folks, however, they still know how to play hob.

A collector of paradoxes from the news of the day offers this in the New York Sun: "A faction of the United Automobile Workers."

Of course cutting up Czechoslovakia is all right for Hitler but Mussolini can hardly wait until he starts carving and serving Africa.

A run shows in Myrna Loy's stocking, so a $10,000 equence must be filmed again. Thus does our timid cinema duck the hard realities of life.

It is charged that there isn't enough fire in many radio speeches. It sometimes seems, however, that not enough radio speeches are put into the fire.

When trans-atlantic air service starts, it will be possible for a man to get a drink in Paris one evening and a bromo seltzer in New York City the next morning.

Hollywood Marksman Uses Sling-Shot In Scene

By MILTON HARKER

(Copyright, 1939)

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—Frank Berscheid, Warner's armorer and one of Hollywood's deadliest marksman, put aside his pistols, rifles and machine guns today and picked up a sling-shot. He had a risky job to do and he intended doing it with a minimum of risk.

The job was to fire four shots through a window between Jimmy Cagney and George Raft in a prison riot scene for "Each Dawn I Die." Frank wasn't afraid of his aim with a rifle—he's never missed yet and he's even gone as far as to put a bullet through a man's shoulder—but he figured he could do it just as well with the stout tree crotch and heavy rubber bands he learned to use as a boy.

The scene was one of many being filmed for the riot, in most of which actual rifle, pistol and machine gun fire is used. In this one Cagney and Raft, two of the leaders of the convict break, are in the corridor of a row of "solitary" cells and national guardsmen are firing down on them from the wall.

Both make good targets from above as they creep along under the low windows, and that's where slugs must come through the window. Out of the range of the camera Berscheid sits with his sling-shot and four holes through the windows with little marbles. Just as they're supposed to do, they miss Cagney and Raft by only the smallest margins. But, in a pinch, Jimmy and George, would rather get knocked by a marble than a bullet. So would you.

Jack Sullivan, one of the huskiest and hardest working of this town's assistant directors, is having a real tough time of it as he aids Edmund Goulding make a scene for "The Old Maid," a story which may shock a few people because in it Bette Davis will have a baby without benefit of marriage.

The scene shows a station in a Pennsylvania town in Civil war days. Bette is there to try to find her sweetheart, Humphrey Bogart, who is going away on a trip. Also there are a troop of Union soldiers and numerous wives, mothers, sweethearts and children. All these are there only for atmosphere but they cause Sullivan no end of trouble.

Most of the women are chewing gum and ladies in Civil war days did not chew gum. Then, too, some of the ladies and most of the soldiers are smoking cigarettes. They didn't do that either in Civil war days.

Sullivan is like a monitor in a class room trying to get all these extras to get rid of their gum and their cigarettes before the camera begins to turn for various phases of this sequence. He runs hither and yon, warning this extra and that extra. But he finally stops the gum chewing and the cigarette smoking and all will be hunky dory on the screen.

"Ye Old Mill" Is Entirely Gone

One-time Famous Water Ride
At Cascade Park
Dismantled

"Ye Old Mill," one-time famous water ride in Cascade Park has been dismantled.

No doubt mention of the mill will bring back memories to some of the older folk in the county, because there were few young people who visited the park years ago, who failed to take a ride in "Ye Old Mill."

Years ago there was "Ye Old Mill" in the upper section of the park but more recently another was erected across the drive from the bandstand. This "Ye Old Mill," like the other, is no more.

When the city decided to operate the park, owners of "Ye Old Mill" offered to sell it to the city. When council believed a price of $1,000, too high, the owners removed the building and are disposing of the wood.

Another building is also being dismantled. It is the top of the "Fun-House," where youngsters and adults would seat themselves on a bag then slide 50 or more feet.

The lumber from this portion of the building is being salvaged by Superintendent C. C. Coulthard. It will be used to repair buildings in the park.

The Great Game Of Politics

Frank would be considered the logical selection, and certainly he would be favored by the "inner circle." But there are two things in the way. One is the question of whether or not Mr. Frank would accept. His friends say he expects and wants to return to private practice. The other is doubt whether Mr. Roosevelt would appoint him.

MR. FRANK, it has been stated by men who ought to know, was promised the District of Columbia judgeship, but, alarmed at what he perceived the dangers of anti-Semitic sentiment, the President sent for him and said he would have to withdraw the promise. His feeling was said to be that the naming of another Jew to the bench so soon after the selection of Dr. Frankfurter might dangerously increase anti-Semitism. Perhaps he may feel the same way about putting Mr. Frank at the head of the SEC, although he would make a better chairman than Mr. Douglas, being neither as extreme in his views, as inexperienced as to business nor as truculent in tone. In spite of this, the Corcoran-Cohen element would approve him, as he is and has been close to it.

THERE has also been suggested the name of Under Secretary of the Treasury John Hanes. That would be as acceptable and encouraging to business as it would be unpalatable to the radical group. It would be distinct proof of the sincerity of the President's gestures, Mr. Hanes, although completely loyal both to Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Morgenthau, is frankly conservative. He is experienced financially, well known in Wall Street and friendly to business. His whole idea is to encourage industry, to remove its handicaps and get its cooperation. Before he became Under Secretary he was a member of the SEC. He would seem to be an ideal appointment for a President who wants to give business a chance to expand and recover. It is a more important job than the one he now has, although he may not think so. However, if he is named it will be over the one hundred per cent opposition of the "intellectual liberals." They will beg the President not to "let the people down," a plea which they have learned never fails to swing him.

The name Allison is of Teutonic origin and means "of holy fame." It may be either a man's or woman's name but in the latter case is usually spelled Allison, and by some authorities given the slightly different meaning of "famous war maid."

Hanna Praises 'Y'; Member Many Years

Pens Article Of Tribute; Lauds
Opportunities It Provides

From the pen of Carl L. Hanna, 309 North Mercer street, comes an article today which salutes the New Castle Y. M. C. A. for its notable community contributions. Hanna has been a member for many years.

His article, written in conjunction with the March 28-29 membership campaign of the "Y," follows:

During many years of membership in the local Y. M. C. A. I have seen the Bible, church, Gra-Y, Hy-Y, Scioto St. Newsboys, camp and other groups sponsored by the "Y" contribute to many desirable traits in boys and young men. Through these opportunities for fellowship under Christian supervision, many have learned to understand and get along with others of the same age and how to cooperate in joint undertakings. I have seen timid boys, through development of skill in athletics and speaking in club meetings, become self-reliant; the "win by any means" attitude replaced by "win by fair means only"; hard losers changed into good losers; and all this while they gained physical benefits, made friends, and had good clean fun.

Eccles Opposes Tax Program People Want

Chief Spending Advocate At Washington Warns On Reduced Taxes

By ROBERT A. MCGILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The nation should have a balanced budget, reduced taxes and a deep cut in federal spending, because that's what the people want, said Governor Mariner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board today.

But Eccles—one of the chief spending advocates in the administration—warned that such a program would be disastrous and, by plain implication, put the responsibility on Congress for bringing about a balance between government receipts and expenditures.

The federal reserve head swept the special Senate silver committee, conducting the hearings, off its feet. In fact, Senator King (D) Utah—Eccles' own state—demanded that Eccles' statement be expunged from the record as "irrelevant." King was overruled by a majority of the committee.

As Eccles testified before the committee, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced that the Treasury is anxious to put its corporation tax revision program before Congress. Such revision has been demanded by fiscal leaders in Congress to help bring about business recovery.

FRENCH CONCEAL PLANS IN MOROCCO

PARIS.—The government today referred contractors tendering bids on public works to the new clause of regulations governing such bids. The regulation prohibits the granting of plans or photographs of any public works in Morocco to agencies of any sort—French or foreign—requesting such information. The government points out that "Such useful information regarding Moroccan ports, air bases, navy bases, factories, public buildings and communications would be of value to foreigners."

Strict penalties are listed for infringing upon this regulation. This rule is particularly important in lieu of the Italian demands for Tunis and Corsica.

HOW DOGS SHOW THEIR AGE

Naturally, dogs show their age. The average veteran canine will begin to become gray around the muzzle, while their eyes tend to serve as a reminder that the years have paid their toll. One year of a dog's existence is equal to approximately seven years of human life. The best way to learn a dog's age is to examine the teeth. The molars serve as a barometer in ascertaining the age of a canine.

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, March 23.—Weakened by the strain of participation in the election of Pope Pius XII and subsequent coronation ceremonies, Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, archbishop of Philadelphia, returned today from Rome so ill that he was taken from the Italian liner

Rex at Quarantine and driven to Philadelphia in a police-escorted automobile.

Cardinal Dougherty had but one comment during the brief passage by tug from his ship to the Jersey City pier where an automobile awaited. That came when he was asked what he thought of the current situation in Europe.

"I don't like it," he said.

The 74-year-old prelate was confined to his cabin on the return voyage from Italy although he appeared in good health when he left last month.

Ole Bull, the Norwegian violinist, bought 125,000 acres in Potter county, Pa., for a Norwegian colony which was to have been called Oleana. His title proved to be faulty and the troubles which resulted seriously affected his health.

'King Of Gate Crashers' Off To Ply His Trade At Competing World Fairs

(International News Service)
ABILENE, Tex.—Personal note to San Francisco and New York: One-Eye Connolly is on his way to your cities to make the opening of your respective World's Fair's official.
The self-styled "king of the gate crashers" stopped at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, on his way to San Francisco from Orlando, Fla.
Brushing aside the fact that President Roosevelt had participated in the ceremonies which most people thought opened the San Francisco World's Fair, Connolly commented that "the thing isn't legal till I go through without paying."
"After we officially open the San Francisco Exposition, I'll leave for New York to open Mr. Whalen's fair on April 29," he said.

His Hardest Gate
In reminiscent mood, One-Eye termed the gate at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City, for the Dempsey-Carpenter championship fight in 1921, the hardest one he has ever crashed.

Tex Rickard, who was one of my close friends, was determined that I wouldn't crash his gate that day. He was a real showman. He did pretty well for a while. There were fifteen entrances to the arena. He had me put out of thirteen of them.
"Then an idea flashed into my mind. I borrowed a white coat from a concession stand, and grabbed a basket of hot dogs and a bucket of coffee. I walked right by the gate-man, telling him I had lunch for the telegraph operators at the ringside."

Convention Experience
Another story One-Eye likes to tell is an experience at the National Democratic Convention at Houston in 1928.

ing the convention, approached One-Eye after he had been tossed out of the convention hall seven times. "How can I keep you out?" Hickman asked.
"Handcuff me to a bench outside. I imagine that might do it," Connolly replied. And that's what Hickman did.
"In a few minutes I picked up the bench, walked with it to the convention door and told the doorman I was delivering it inside. There, Captain Hickman found me, got a hearty laugh, and gave me privileges of the floor," Connolly relates with glee.
On the Hardin-Simmons University campus, during his stop-over, Connolly spoke at the student chapel. "Do as I tell you, not as I do," he told the student body, and urged them to make the most of their opportunities.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The big battle wagons of the sky are beginning to hit up a pace which will hold them, at top speed, to a straight line. Up around 500 miles an hour, they can't be banked sharply because, under such stress, the pilot's viscera and his vasomotor system in general, are scrambled like an omelet. Here's where little Prometheus, flitting wings instead of fire, is flagged by a minor Olympian known as centrifugal force.

There isn't anything they can do about it, unless they use robot pilots. Only such bloodless creatures could engage in an aerial dogfight at top speed in a modern war plane. Grounded at a night spot the other night, I found Captain Sherman Altick, the flying writer, or vice versa, and gleaned from him not only the above but a handful of other odds and ends about the evolution of the modern fighting plane in the two swift decades since the war to end war.

Captain Altick, who was the "ride 'em cowboy" of our first serious air rodeo in France, was being congratulated by his friends for having been awarded the TWA trophy, given annually to a writer on aviation. The "Oscar," as the huge silver trophy is called, is non-negotiable, but it brought with it $250 of quite negotiable currency—which amount would have made "quite a splash" on a day off on the Western Front," the captain murmured reminiscently.

Captain Altick was a test pilot in France in the days before any plane ever carried a parachute. He is a substantial citizen, who looks like he enjoyed piloting a rocking chair. But "you can't go to heaven in a rocking chair," and he keeps on riding skyward in modern planes which make the best of those old wartime crates seem like wheelbarrows for speed and mobility.

It was news to me that an up-to-date war plane shoots a cannon through its crank-shaft. Others, electrically operated, are outside the propeller. Synchronizing machine-gun fire through the whirling blades of a propeller was a marvel of scientific ingenuity, but is no longer necessary. This gain in simplicity is, of course of great importance in a fighting plane.

Young Lt. Altick's Spads and Bre-quiet numbers had around 200-horsepower and hit up to 150 miles an hour. Now it's from 1,000 to 1,500-horsepower and possible speeds up to 500. Conquest of the stratosphere is coming fast. The problem of equalizing outside and inside air pressure is being solved.

Possibly of greater interest is the adaptation of the human being to the demands of the new element which it has invaded in just an eye-wink in the sweep of time. There is in process a slow and gradual conditioning of fliers," said Captain Altick, "which may, in time, enable them to resist even the murderous buffeting of sharp banks at top speed. Profound studies have been made of blood pressure and distribution at high speed, and under sudden turns, and of the responses of the human organism under such stress.

"Evidence to date is that, starting young, with continuous training, a man may become immune to strains which, without this conditioning, would just about tear him to pieces. Stratosphere flying will impose no such shocks, as such high-flying, a matter of oxygenation and pressure equalization, is being rapidly worked out by scientific methods.

"Within two or three years," the captain believes, "we will be riding above the storms, quite comfortably, at around 30,000 feet altitude."

I asked Captain Altick whether young America was taking to the air in sufficient numbers adequately to man our growing swarm of battle planes. He said nobody need worry about that. There is much to be done by both the army Air Corps and the Civilian Commission, but the fledglings are flapping their wings eagerly and are showing remarkable aptitude. Our planes will never lack first-class pilots.

Captain Altick, born in Dayton,

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

AIR-SWALLOWING DURING FEEDINGS OFTEN CAUSES INFANT'S VOMITING

Letters that come to me from mothers asking for advice about children seem to run in cycles. For a while they will be mostly about some complaint and then change to something else. Recently the chief trouble seems to be vomiting, for about 75 per cent of the letters I've received have been about that.

Unfortunately, when a mother writes me and tells me her baby is vomiting, and asks me what to do about it, all I can do is tell her to call her doctor. That is all I can honestly do, because the causes of vomiting are so many and varied that a physician needs to be on hand to examine the child before he can point with any confidence to the trouble.

Occasionally when a woman tells me that she lives in some out-of-the-way place where there isn't a doctor for a great many miles, I try to give her a few general ideas, but it is a very difficult thing to be exact, because vomiting can be caused by so many different complications. It may be a very innocent thing, like a little trouble with the child's feeding; it may be the sign that some very serious illness has struck the baby.

One common cause of vomiting in small babies is the swallowing of small amounts of air during and between feedings. Children who over-feed are prone to do this. Then a child may be fed while lying down on his side. If the head isn't supported properly, and the milk comes out of the bottle too fast, it is quite liable to come up again. This is particularly liable to be true if the child does swallow some air along with the milk. But if the child is held in an upright position, the air bubbles will rise through the food and escape without the child bringing up the whole feeding.

The best way to prevent vomiting as a result of swallowing air is to hold the infant over your shoulder just before and after each feeding, patting the child on the back meanwhile, until the air comes up. There have been times when we had to stop in the middle of a feeding and wait, until this air came up. We had plenty of experience along these lines with the quintuplets, and it was through them we learned this simple means of helping them to keep their food down. We also learned that it is wise to handle the child just as little as possible after feeding. Otherwise food was vomited up and we had to begin all over again.

Some children learn the habit of swallowing air during feedings. Children who suck their fingers or thumbs are apt to do this and so are those who are given comforts and pacifiers.

Vomiting occurs in many cases where the stomach has been overloaded, either from too heavy or too frequent feedings. I have noticed repeatedly that children who are fed at three-hour intervals vomit much more often than do those whose feeding intervals are four hours apart. That is the reason your doctor will advise feeding at that interval, unless there is some special reason why the three-hour schedule should be observed.

The cost to the county for the trial of Angeline Maravola of Hillsville who was acquitted last week, will hardly exceed $1,000, it is estimated in the clerk of court's office.

The jury costs amount to $318 with another small sum for mileage. The witness fees run about $250. Incidental costs to the case such as meals, and lodging for the jury, will bring the total up to about $1,000. It is thought, an unusually small amount for a major case.

Japanese Using California Oil, Congressman Says

Claims Panes That Bombed U. S. S. Panay Used Oil From Submerged Fields

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The house judiciary committee, opening hearings on the controversial submerged oil land problem, today heard Rep. Hobbs (D., Alabama), charge that the Japanese plane which bombed the U. S. S. Panay was powered by fuel obtained from submerged oil lands of California.

Hobbs, author of pending legislation which would direct the federal government to seize title to California's submarine oil deposits, declared he was sponsoring the step "so as not to be party to another Teapot Dome scandal."

"The Japanese had a perfect right to buy that fuel from California, but I claim the navy needs it and that the federal government has the right to take title to the submerged land," he said.

With members of the California delegation and state officials waiting to testify in opposition, Senator Connally (D., Texas), also appeared before the committee to declare his opposition on the ground that if the federal government seized California's submerged oil lands, "the next step would be to take those of Texas."

Hobbs, questioned by Rep. Tolan (D., California), agreed that if the government can obtain title to the California lands, so it can in Texas "or my own state of Alabama for that matter."

Normally the kidney may move an inch or two.

May Batter Down Wage Differentials In North And South

Significant Move Seen In Industry

Cotton Textile Industry
Committee Recommends
One U. S. Wage Rate

HEARINGS COMING
ON THIS PROPOSAL

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Carrying far-flung implications for all industry in the nation, an attempt was being made in Washington today to batter down century-old wage differentials between the north and south.

A committee for the cotton textile industry started the movement when it recommended to Washington Administrator Elmer F. Andrews that a minimum wage of 32½ cents an hour be proclaimed under the wage-hours law for the 600,000 wage earners in that industry.

The action of the committee set a precedent. It was empowered to recommend wage differentials between the north and south but the committee, by a vote of 13 to 6, decided to set an industry wide minimum for cotton textile factories which stretch down from New England into the deep south.

Even under the old NRA code for the same industry, wage differentials had been recognized. Under the NRA, the rate had been 32½ cents for textile workers in the north and 30 cents for workers in the south. In other industries, wage differentials, according to the U. S. department of labor, averaged about seven cents an hour.

May Become Mandatory
The recommendations of the textile committee are subject to evidence to be introduced at hearings to be called soon by the wage-hours division and final approval or rejection by Andrews himself. If Andrews approves the minimum, the 32½ cents an hour rate will be mandatory.

Such a wage scale would mean pay increases for approximately 120,000 workers in the cotton industry, and would mean a pay boost of about $3 a week to as many as 100,000 of that number. According to the department of labor, when minimum wages of 25 cents an hour went into effect last October, about 100,000 cotton workers received pay raises to that level. However, the average wage for the textile worker was about 36 cents an hour.

The cotton textile committee, headed by Donald M. Nelson of Chicago and known formally as industry committee No. 1, was the first committee to make wage recommendations on a nation-wide basis to Andrews. A woolen industry committee had made recommendations for a 36-cent an hour rate for about 135,000 workers but the woolen industry is centered in the north or on the northern fringe of the dividing line of the south.

Big Attendance Aim On Sunday

Day Is Designated As "Hundred Percent Enrollment Day" In Campaign

"Enrollment Day" is the designation for the coming Sunday of the "Four Star" increase campaign that is being sponsored by the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association, and the effort will be made by the participating Sunday schools to have as large a percentage of the enrollment present as possible.

Much encouragement and impetus to the campaign was given by the splendid attendance of last Sunday, and with favorable weather it is hoped that attendance records will be broken during the remaining three Sunday that end with Easter.

The first goal of the campaign, an increase in Evangelism, is being stressed in practically all of the Sunday schools under the leadership of the pastors and Sunday school superintendents. At the First Baptist Sunday school of this city next Sunday will be Decision Day, and a planned program will be effective. There will be many baptismal services Easter Sunday in the Lawrence County churches.

The second and third goals, increase in Sunday school and church attendance, are registering good progress and the fourth goal of an increase in Bible study is being observed in many Sunday schools and will continue after Easter.

Can Dismiss Teacher Of Abolished Department

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, March 23.—The abolition of a school department—if justifiable—is adequate reason to dismiss a teacher under the Teacher Tenure Act, according to a ruling today by Chief Justice John W. Keppel of the state supreme court.

The point was raised when the high tribunal reversed a Northumberland county court decision yesterday which directed reinstatement of Rebecca Ehret, dismissed by the board of Kulpment school district board May 31, 1938.

The case, however, was sent back to the lower court for further hearing to determine the board's reason for its action in abolishing the kindergarten department taught by Miss Ehret.

Serious Question
"The question raised is a most serious one and affects the life of our educational system," stated Chief Justice Keppel.

"To sustain appellee's contention that a teacher whose department has been discontinued must be retained, and the board compelled to pay her while she is idle, would seriously handicap our educational policies."

If the appellee's position is upheld, no school board would risk the establishment of any new department, which in the event of failure must be continued or its idle teachers paid.

The intention of the legislature, the chief justice decided "was not . . . to confer any special privileges or immunities upon professional employees to restrain permanently their position and pay regardless of a place to work and pupils to be taught."

Further and more vigorous steps in protest against the recent adjustment of milk prices will be made to the state authorities in Harrisburg, following a meeting of delegates of milk producers in the Pittsburgh Milk Shed in Butler Wednesday night. Lawrence county was represented by John B. Shaw and J. Audley Book.

The other counties are being organized and at Butler on Wednesday night it was decided to send delegates to Harrisburg in an effort to re-adjust the prices so that the farmer would not have to take 75 per cent of the reduction. The meeting was presided over by James M. McCommon Wednesday night.

The Lawrence County Milk Producers' Association has the following official personnel: President, John B. Shaw; vice president, Homer Nicely; secretary, Fred Taylor; and treasurer, James B. Kelso.

Governor Asserts Sanatorium Not Needed At Present

Asserts Health And Welfare Departments Against Use Of Butler Sanatorium

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Mar. 23—Gov. Arthur H. James today said that he had been advised by Secretary of Health John J. Shaw and Secretary of Welfare E. Arthur Sweeney that there was no need at present for the newly-constructed Butler sanatorium.

The governor said that Shaw and Sweeney had engaged in a survey of all hospital facilities and had come to the conclusion that with the completion of new hospital construction other than that in Butler county there would be ample facilities for hospitalization of tuberculosis cases.

In his budget message the governor recommended that the Butler hospital be kept closed for the next two years for economy reasons.

His position has been attacked in the senate by Sen. C. Hale Sipe, Butler-Armstrong Democrat. Sipe, previous to the governor's announcement, read a letter in the senate from the Erie County Health and Tuberculosis Association addressed to Sen. Samuel L. Gilson, D., Erie, who was absent.

The Erie Association wrote that the need for the Butler sanatorium was urgent, adding that it had adopted a resolution asking the governor to reconsider.

Soil Sinking In Tokyo's Streets

Earth Shrinks From Buildings Causing Sidewalks To Tilt

(International News Service)
TOKYO—Those who frequent Tokyo's midtown business section have been puzzled for some time at the strange growth of certain buildings. It seems as if their foundations had taken root and were pushing the superstructure toward the sun.

In some cases, the sidewalk from the building line to the curb has been tilted to an angle of about 30 degrees, making walking a rather difficult, lopsided process.

Today, Dr. Naomi Miyabe, of Tokyo Imperial University's Earthquake Research Institute, disclosed the findings of a year's study of the phenomenon.

The buildings are not really growing taller, he explained. The topsoil around them is settling, probably due to a recession of the underground water level. The sinking averages about four inches a year in the downtown section, Dr. Miyabe said, and will continue for about six feet.

Dr. Miyabe has found the same conditions in Osaka, where he says there is a 330-foot layer of soft soil to settle. The sinking is even greater in Tokyo sections bordering the Sumida river at its entrance to Tokyo bay, but is more noticeable in the downtown business quarter.

New Discovery Locates Tumors

Spots And Tumors On Brain Can Be Located Instantly With Device

(International News Service)
LONDON—An amazing machine which, according to experts, has advanced British surgery by 2,000 years, may soon be installed in every hospital in Britain.

The machine, the invention of a young physiologist, Grey Walter, detects instantly spots or tumors on the brain.

Surgeons are thus saved the intricate process of X-raying the brain or the delicate and laborious task of chipping away the skull until the growth is located.

Three of these machines, known as electroencephalograms, are already in service, at the Nuffield Institute at Oxford and in Edinburgh and Manchester. Another is being constructed for a surgeon at Leeds.

To operate the "tumor spotter" the patient sits in a chair and a wire and rubber "hair net" is fixed over his head.

Pad electrodes fitted to the net pick up the tiny waves from the brain cells.

Three wires from the cap to an amplifier transmit the electrical impulses from the brain and the waves are amplified to 50,000,000 times their normal strength.

Recorded On Spool

They are then recorded graphically on a spool of fine film, revealing any abnormal growth.

By moving the electrodes over the head the exact location of the tumor or abscess can be determined.

Lou Gehrig Is About Through As Yank Star

"Larrupin" Lou Of Columbia Is Benched For First Time Since 1925

TOMMY HENRICH PLAYS FIRST BASE

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, March 23.—Floundering through the most ragged spring training performance of his major league career, Lou Gehrig is threatened with sudden termination of his tenure as the regular first baseman of the New York Yankees and if the end actually is here for the big but aging slugger, then it may also be approaching for the Yankees as champions of the American league.

That all sounds very fantastic, of course, and the team remains a one to three favorite to win its fourth straight pennant. The Yanks have so much power that they wouldn't even miss Gehrig, some would have you believe, but I still wonder what will happen if he is out and the Boston Red Sox or Cleveland Indians suddenly get very hot, very lucky, or both.

Gehrig Benched

New York newspaper headlines today heralded yesterday's innovation in which young Tom Henrich supplanted old Lou in the Yankee lineup in a Florida exhibition game and speculation was renewed as to whether Manager Joe McCarthy also is anticipating the veteran first-sacker's baseball demise after the 14 major league seasons. If so, the verdict is in with scarcely a dissenting vote.

Correspondents who have been peering at the strapping 200-pounder ever since he first began to powder the ball for the Yanks in 1925 are virtually unanimous in presenting the sad news that he never has looked quite so bad before—quite so uncertain and erratic, so utterly inept, in fact. He fell below 300 last season for the first time since his opening campaign with the Yanks, seeming to indicate that at 35 time finally has begun to fester him.

Very Weak Hitting

And apparently he is confirming the worst in spring training. In 38 trips to the plate he has driven in a grand total of two runs and his batting average is .132. He has made five errors in 10 games, is throwing poorly and experiencing difficulty with his legs and feet. Outside of those few details he has nothing to be concerned about, except the possible result thereof, viz: whether he is going to do some bench-riding. If so, it looks as though Henrich will get that first base job despite the fact that he batted only 270 last season as an outfielder while Gehrig was an even 295, which isn't so bad, except that from the way he is going now he won't come within a hundred points of that figure.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Local sport briefs. Look for the city league and county league umpires to amalgamate before the start of the local diamond season. Leo Hill and Dom Costello, prexies of the two associations, are in favor of the plan. . . . Sammy Rosenberg, East Reynolds street, who ranks as one of the outstanding boxers developed at Pitt university during the past several years, served as a second here last Monday night. . . . Joe Howley informed the column engineer that the Knights of Columbus are already making plans for a softball tourney at the close of the season. . . . Training camp correspondents report that Fred Shaffer is one of the most impressive hurlers on the Louisville Colonel squad which is in spring training at Arcadia. The local athlete left the city a few weeks ago in the "pink of condition".

Fresh baseball stuff. Look for Joe DiMaggio to burn up the American league. The Yankee slugger has been murdering the horsehide since hauling his baggage to camp. His arm ranks as the best in the business. . . . Ole reliable Tony Lazzeri, who they said was washed up five years ago, looms as a third base replacement for the ailing Cookie Lavagetto. Lazzeri should do all right in a Brooklyn monkey suit. . . . Everyone is wondering if Monte Stratton will be able to take a turn on the mound with the use of an artificial leg. Its highly improbable, since Stratton would be greatly handicapped in fielding ground balls, covering up first and backing up the catcher. The likeable athlete, who lost a leg in a hunting mishap last fall, would like to be in there in the season opener. That's how stout-hearted he is. Stratton, who was reaching the top, will likely cheer on his teammates from the bench.

Note: This is the first of a series of 16 brief articles on the 16 major league teams and their prospects for the coming season.

The Pittsburgh Pirates—Traynor's team looms as the puzzle of the coming campaign. Will they snap out of it? Will the Pies, who folded up in the dying days of the '38 campaign and lost a pennant that was virtually tucked away, come out fighting or will they wilt? These are a few of the things that make the western Pennsylvania entry a "big-saw" puzzle. One of Traynor's biggest handicaps is reserves. Pittsburgh has the smallest squad in the loop. Suhr is the lone first sacker; Pep Young is a solo second sacker with Arky Vaughn as sweet as anything you'll find at short. At third, Traynor is well fortified. Lee Handley, young but up and coming, Bill Brubaker, Frank Gustine and John Juelich are battling it out for the post. None of the athletes are recognized as standouts although Handley made a creditable showing last season.

The Pittsburgh outfield seems O. K. with Lloyd Waner, Johnny Rizzo, Forrest Jensen and Fern Bell, the rookie from Louisville. Heinie Mahusch will hang around mostly as a pinch-hitter. Should Bell come through in the same manner as Rizzo, the absence of Paul Waner will not be noticed. "Big Poison" hit .280 and was far from impressive in the outer garden. Bob Elliott, Savannah, who hit .325, is a promising recruit. The pitching staff will hold its own against any other in the loop. Heintzelman, Bauers, Blanton, Bowman, Brandt, Brown, Klingner, Sewell, Swift and Tobin complete a powerful pitching staff. Ray Berres, George Sussie and Ray Mueller form the backstops. Mueller, obtained from Boston, may not aid the Pies. He hasn't handled Pittsburgh hurlers and may find some difficulty. He is an efficient player, however. The biggest question is: Will the team be another Pittsburgh Pirate outfit which usually lacks fight and folds up? A lot of college fight may carry the Bucs through.

Fullback George Cummings was purchased from a Scotland club for $50,000 by a Birmingham, England soccer club in 1935. . . . Man O'War ran the one-half mile in 45.4 seconds as Aqueduct track in New York back in 1920. . . . Johnny Layton copped the world's three-cushion billiard title in 1920 and repeated three times later, the last time in 1934. . . . A total of 621 cities is represented in the American Bowling Congress underway in Cleveland.

Track Season Is Fast Approaching

The 1939 track season is fast approaching and with the advent of a few warm days the New Castle High trackers can get out on the cinders at Taggart Stadium for a workout. At the present time the boys are limbering up in the senior high gym.

Coch Bill Klee is anxious to get his charges out of doors and hopes that a few warm days will soon arrive. There is an indication of a crackjack track and field team at Senior High this spring.

GUS' SOFTBALL TEAM IN LEAGUE

The Gus' softball team this year will be managed by Gabby DeCaprio and will be the Amodies of last year, the team that was runner-up to the Rads for the city championship.

Besides managing the team DeCaprio will cavort in the center field post for the Gus' team and will have as his players the following: "Cannonball" Bishara, Kendra, Roger Maggie, Lee Gairdo, Lefty Rozak, Nick Gennock, Sam Copple, Frank Copple, Yerrage, Metta, Louie Colello, Len Turco, "Muz" Sniezek, Filbert Nocera, Chuck Yerrage, Lou Ross, Jackie Jones, Lefty Polenick, Pete Zingaro, Geno Forncioni, Walt Paikowitch, and Gumbert Yerrage.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Joe Chamaco, Mexican star of New York, leads in the tournament for the world's three-cushion billiards championship, having won 39 games. He is charged with 10 defeats. Jay Bozeman of Chicago trails the Mexican with 37 victories and 21 defeats.

Kilstar is a 15 to 2 favorite to win the Grand National steeplechase event at Aintree, Friday. Sir Alexander Maguire's Workman is quoted at 9 to 2 and Danelli, runner-up last year, is a 21 to 1 shot. Royal Mail, owned by Mrs. Camille Evans, former American, is an 18 to 1 choice.

Davey O'Brien, 1938 All-American quarterback at Texas Christian U., has signed a contract to play professional football next fall with the Philadelphia Eagles. O'Brien signed with Owner Bert Bell of the Eagles at a conference in Fort Worth, Tex., yesterday.

Patty Berg of Minneapolis won the annual Mid-South golf tournament for the second consecutive year yesterday at Southern Pines, N. C., by shooting a 75 for a final score of 223 in the 54-hole medal play event.

Burro Ball Hawks Ready For Clash On Monday Evening

Unique Basketball Games Will Be Staged By City Firemen At Arena

New Castle sport fans will be treated to the newest innovation in the sports line on Monday evening, when a team composed of city firemen will battle a team made up of city officials in a game of burro basketball at The Arena.

Mounted on the tiny jackasses, the two teams will endeavor to hoop a regulation basketball, which is hard enough for amateurs at the best when standing on one's own two feet.

The game is said to be hilariously funny, as the burros are stubborn brutes and often take matters into their own hands.

The game was invented by Hank Weber, former Kansas State grid star, as an outgrowth of burro polo, which he devised to entertain some grimmer friends on his father's farm in Kansas.

After spending seven years playing pro football with the Green Bay Packers and New York Giants, he turned to the burro game as a means of earning his living. In the summer, baseball is played on the backs of the tiny jackasses, and in the winter they romp about on the basketball floor.

The animals seem to enjoy themselves as much as the players and are able to furnish no end of amusement by their antics.

Long Island U. Mythical Champs

Hand 44 To 32 Setback To Loyola University Last Night In New York

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 23.—Unbeaten Long Island university today laid claim to the mythical national collegiate basketball title by virtue of the 44 to 32 defeat it handed Loyola last night before 18,000 at Madison Square Garden.

The Long Islanders ran their winning streak to 24 games and snapped off Loyola's at 21 as they cut down Mike Novak, the giant Loyola star, to win the final game in the national invitation basketball championships.

Clair Bee's Long Island boys played practically perfect basketball, whisking the ball through the hoop as if it was propelled by invisible strings.

Floor Title At Stake Tonight

Bethel-St. Paul Baptist Will Battle For Colored Church League Laurels

One of the most exciting floor tussles of the season is anticipated tonight when the Bethel A. M. E. passers face the St. Paul Baptist cagers for the 1938-39 championship of the Colored Church League. The game will be played on the Lincoln court.

Thomas Farrow, pilot of the Bethel team, will present his strongest lineup in the hope of dethroning the St. Pauls who copped the coveted title last season by trouncing the Bethels.

Only four strokes separated the nine leaders in the north and south golf tournament at Pinehurst, with Byron Nelson in the van with a 36-hole total of 139.

National Women's Champion Patty Berg tucked away the women's mid-south golf tourney at Southern Pines, S. C., winding up with a 54-hole score of 223, 23 strokes better than par.

Helen Detweiler, defending champion of Washington, D. C., was among the second round survivors in the Augusta women's invitation golf meeting.

St. Xavier of Louisville, Ky., upset by Mt. Carmel of Chicago in first round of national Catholic prep school basketball tournament in Chicago.

PULASKI ALL-STARS WIN

The K. Pulaski All-Stars basketball team defeated the Lincoln Zephyrs at the Lincoln-Garfield floor, 21 to 19 with Boron and Ryzny the scoring stars for the winners, and Metta and Tip Richards best for the losers. At the half the score was tied at 7-7.

Only 22 More Days!

Well, now that the first of spring has officially come we are really nearing "the fiftieth." Only twenty-two days after today!

Remember back in the "winter" when we were counting months instead of days? It seemed a long time then, but now as you look back the time has certainly passed quickly hasn't it? The next three weeks will go before you realize it, and you will find yourself looking opening day of the trout season right in the face. Wonder if it will catch you unprepared? Got your license?

If the weather stays like this much longer we may get a chance to try fishing for trout through the ice. The pools in the local streams were frozen over this past week end; the nights are still plenty cold though the sun is having some effect in the daytime. If you have been out recently you no doubt noticed that the recognized trout streams are posted to the effect that all fishing is prohibited until the fifteenth of April. That is an excellent idea, one which will undoubtedly receive the wholehearted support of the angling public. Your money and mine is used to stock the streams, and we all want to get an even start on the season.

There is something to think about. You pay the state $1.50 for a license—wonder how many trout that entitles you to? As many as you can catch? NO! Neither does it mean that you should keep the legal limit of 10 very often. We all fish for the sport more than for the meat, though fresh trout are certainly excellent eating. A sportsman should not be enthused to boast that he "got the limit again today." There is not enough fishing for anyone to be entitled to a great number of trout, even if he can catch them. Why not use flies for trout and so get the most fun out of your fishing, and at the same time be able to release, unharmed, most of the trout you catch? Can you, by any stretch of the imagination, claim to have had "a fight" one of these six or seven inch stocked trout? If you get them on flies they are only lightly hooked in the lips, and have not swallowed the hook as is so often the case when bait is used. These small trout, carefully returned to the stream, will have a chance to grow and afford some other angler (or maybe yours!) at a later date) some sport. Dead in a creel they are not really a prized trophy, are they?

Give fly fishing just a fair chance

Junior Police

Patrol Likely

Chief of police Ralph A. Criswell today seriously considered a proposal to organize a Junior Police patrol in this city.

The organization, if formed, would not be a criminal-hunting body. Instead the members of such an organization would pledge themselves to obey the law. Violation of a law would cost the member his membership.

Wherever such organizations have been formed they have reacted to the benefit of the community.

Stock Market
Rallies BrisklyGains Run From One To Four Points In Morning
Trading

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 23.—The stock market rallied briskly today from yesterday's slump, gains running from one to nearly four points in leaders. Best prices were maintained as the session wore on. The runup reflected the recovery in stock markets abroad where a more hopeful view was taken of the crisis abroad.

Bethlehem Steel was the feature at the start, opening 3 1/2 points higher on 3,000 shares. It lost over a point of this later. Other steels also were buoyant, both U. S. Steel and Youngstown gaining over two points each but receding from the highs.

Chrysler jumped 3 points and then lost a fraction of this. General Motors opened a point higher and added to this later.

DuPont was an exception, and was a point lower part of the time. Other chemicals were strong, gains running to more than 2 points in Allied. Elsewhere gains of 1 to more than 2 points were common and included leaders in farm implements, electrical equipments, copper, mail orders, auto accessories, Union Pacific in rails, rubbers, tobaccos, aviatics and glass stocks.

Aluminum ran up 4 points on the curb. Bonds improved with stocks.

Board Of Review
To Meet Tonight

Merit Badge Applications Will Be Reviewed And First Class Tests Given

ELLWOOD CITY, March 23.—Previous announcements from the advancement group of the Ellwood City district of Boy Scouts, have stated that tonight's review board would give tests for merit badges. That was the original plan for the March setup of reviewing, but it is necessary to call all members of the review board consisting of one or more examiners from each and every troop in the district. Either the scoutmaster or an able assistant should be present at the scout council room in the city building tonight at 7 p. m. for the purpose of reviewing merit badge applicants or assisting in the technical work of examining first class scout applicants who were not permitted to be tested at Tuesday evening's meeting.

Those Boy Scouts who made application for first class scout advancement last Tuesday evening and were not examined will present themselves with all necessary equipment, at the scout office at 7 p. m. tonight to be examined. It was necessary to turn a large number of first class applicants away because time would not permit to complete the work in one night.

Stream-lining or no other device will help when the Boy Scouts in droves like they did last Tuesday. If the activity in scouting continues to grow as it has in the last year, several drastic changes will have to be worked in the setup for examinations and reviewing and more adult trained help will be necessary if the good work is to be continued.

Review board will take care of all merit badge applications first and then complete the work of examining first class scouts for advancement, starting at 7 p. m. and quitting when the last boy is taken care of satisfactorily.

Propose U. S. Aid In Actual Arming Of American Republics

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 23.—America's diplomatic, army and navy chiefs joined to endorse the Pittman resolution designed to arm other American republics with United States-made warships and munitions.

Appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations committee Wednesday, as Nazi Germany enveloped Lithuania's city of Memel, the spokesmen for this government approved — without reservation — the plan to provide all the Western Hemisphere with defenses against aggression.

Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles, who Friday had branded the seizure of Czechoslovakia by Hitler as "wanton lawlessness" told the committee that the Pittman resolution meets "with the full approval of the department of state."

Later, Welles, in a press conference, refused to comment on Germany's acquisition of Memel.

The spoke-man for the navy, Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of operations, declared that adoption of the Pittman resolution would bring a close relationship that would discourage and make more difficult any aggression against this continent.

Brig. Gen. George Marshall, deputy chief of staff of the army, went even further and urged minor modifications extending to southern neighbors of the United States every facility of the government's expert inspection and testing service, along with necessary instructions for operating some of the highly complicated confidential military apparatus of the army and navy.
